Comment Of The Day

The high price of justice

PAUL COATES' television programme, "Confidential File" recently devoted itself to the high price of justice in American courts. At least some of the points brought out in the programme have a bearing in Hongkong. Mr. Coates summed up his programme with the point that justice in most parts of the U.S. was only alright for the very rich, who could afford the large fees involved in a criminal defence trial, and for the very poor, who were treated as paupers, and had state assistance. Such is the case in Hongkong where again it seems that only those at the extreme ends of the monetary scale can have in many cases, a proper defence if they are charged with a crime. It is certainly true that legal aid was extended to a greater proportion of the Hongkong public, should they need it, for the year majority cannot afford the fees, yet are not in such a position as to have a claim to legal aid in its present form.

IN cases where accused persons have some private means, but not enough to conduct a proper defence, aid should be given to supplement those private means. Other forms of assistance could be given to defendants through the formation of a public defenders' office, which would investigate worthy cases and take on such duties as those carried out by private detective agencies. Another point brought out in the programme was the question of statements given to the police by accused people. These statements, invariably complete confessions, are used by prosecuting officers in local courts every day. And almost as regularly, the defendants deny having made them, or charge that the police used force or physical violence to procure them.

THE result is a long-winded discourse of a trial within a trial, to see if the statement is admissible or not. Why prosecutors rely so much on these statements, it is difficult to say; such statements are rare in criminal cases in England, and few of those who do make them, charge the police with violence in getting them.

The solution should be that if an accused person is willing to make a free and voluntary statement, he should make it before a Justice of the Peace or a Magistrate. Then there can be no question of any threats or violence on the part of the police.

SOMEONE is bound to ask: Can we afford to extend legal aid? It is rather a silly question considering that the court's function, if satisfied that the law has been broken, is to deprive an individual of his liberty. But it is hard to understand how any court dealing with more than petty misdemeanours can be satisfied beyond all reasonable doubt unless accused and accuser meet on common ground, the one at no disadvantage to the other.

If we build fine court houses to enshrine the fair name of British justice, it is hard to quibble at the outlay of a few more dollars to see that justice is done with that scrupulous and impeccable fairness which people everywhere have come to regard as its highest and finest quality.

BIG SWEEP SAID WON BY WAITRESS

A restaurant waitress in Central District is reported to have won the first prize of $1,476,014 in the Kwang-tung Handicap sweep on Saturday.

The report which appeared in a leading Chinese newspaper, the Wah Kiu Yat Po, could not be confirmed.

She was said to have bought the lucky number jointly with a colleague and a customer.

She asked for leave and did not report for duty at the restaurant yesterday.

SECOND PRIZE

The second prize of $421,718, according to another Chinese newspaper, was reportedly won by a department store foki in Queen's-road Central.

During the year he was with the store, he had never left without asking for leave from the proprietor.

But he was said to have left the store without asking after checking the prize-winning numbers of the cash sweep last Saturday and has not returned since.

Colleagues said he had won the second prize.

China Mail's tipster "Rapior" was again well in the fore in picking out the winners of the third day's races in the Third Race Meeting last Saturday.

A $5 bet on his double would have given readers a handsome return of $240. Oscar Prize paid $62.50 and House Top $20.50. In addition, "Rapior" successfully tipped House Top as the best bet of the day and was one of the very few tipsters who picked Wing Che to win the last race of the day.

U.S. FILM STARTS RIOTS

Cologne, Nov. 13. Cologne political police today began searching for the organisers of what they termed planned demonstrations against the US film "Battle Zone."

Riot squads stormed into the Olympia Theatre on Saturday night to quell fist fights started by youths who threw slink bombs and sneezing powder every time US troops were heroically portrayed in battle scenes against the World War II Japanese police said.

The fighting then continued outside the theatre, involving groups of adults. Two adults were held for investigation.

Princess Astrid to wed commoner

Oslo, Nov. 13. King Olav V of Norway today announced the engagement of his daughter, Princess Astrid, to commoner Johan Martin Ferner.

The announcement of the engagement came halfway through the official engagement party tonight at the Palace for the immediate family and close friends of the couple.

The Princess, who was 28 on February 12 last, met her husband-to-be several years ago through the Royal Norwegian Yacht Club where both are active members.

Her fiancé, who is 33, is the junior partner of a high-class gentlemen's outfitter store in Oslo which was founded by his father.

The engagement has been in the offing for some time, and has already created bitter controversy within the Norwegian church and in wide circles.

Ferner has been married before and was divorced five years ago. There were no children in his previous marriage.

It had been established earlier that no bishop of the Norwegian Lutheran State Church would perform the marriage.—AP.

Dramatic end to big manhunt

Glasgow, Nov. 13. One of Britain's biggest manhunts ended in a quiet Scottish hotel today with the arrest of a young girl and her boy friend—both wanted by police investigating the killing of a bank guard in southern England.

A tall, white-haired old lady of 72 turned them in. Detectives charged 20-year-old Victor Terry with murder and 18-year-old Valerie Salter with receiving stolen money.

The young fugitives were arrested 450 miles from the south coast resort of Worthing where the guard, 61-year-old Henry John Pull, was shot in the left eye during a £1,400 bank raid last Thursday.

Soon after the shooting, police arrested two youths, aged 20 and 10 and charged them with murdering Pull.

At the same time Scotland Yard ordered a search throughout the nation for Terry and his girl friend. It said they were wanted for questioning about the raid.

Fearing possible new violence, the Yard told police to "warn themselves for the search in rare sleep in Britain."

Pictures of Valerie, a school-girl swimming champion, were flashed on television screens and printed on front pages.

GLASGOW — 'CITY OF NEGATION'

Glasgow, Nov. 11. Mrs. Jean Roberts, Lord Provost of Glasgow, said that she was fast reaching the conclusion that Glasgow, like other cities, was becoming "a city of negation."

At a lunch to mark the official opening of 52 miles of electrified railway line in Glasgow, she said "I have been noting the negative signs—no left turn, no right turn, no parking, no entry, no waiting, no through road, no horse-drawn lorries or handbarrows, no loitering, no litter."

"The only positive suggestion in the city, which naturally appeals to me, is 'keep left.'—China Mail Special.

Bowles clarifies his stand on China policy

Washington, Nov. 13. Republican Chester Bowles, a strong contender for Secretary of State under President John F. Kennedy, said today he always has opposed diplomatic recognition of Communist China and continues to do so.

The Connecticut Democrat's statement, issued through an aide, was in answer to criticism of his policies yesterday by Senator Norris Cotton, Republican of New Hampshire.

Mr. Cotton, commenting on Bowles' interview telecast by tape on Friday night in London, said he would oppose Bowles if Kennedy appoints him Secretary of State.

"I do not see how I could bring myself to vote for the confirmation of a Secretary of State who favoured any form of recognition of Communist China," the Senator said.

WITHHELD

A spokesman for Bowles said the interview aired in London had been taped in the United States last May and, "for some reason or other," had been withheld by British TV officials for six months. He said Bowles had not been in England for over a year.

Bowles "recognizes that recognition of China is impossible," this aide said, and added: "He feels that the general danger of (Communist) Chinese imperialism has been underestimated...that it constitutes more of a threat than the Soviet Union."

The Bowles spokesman said it was "difficult to understand" what Cotton was talking about in the critical statement issued by the Senator's office.

WORST

Cotton said Bowles' suggestion that the United States should pursue a "two China" policy—consisting of an independent Formosa and an independent China, on the mainland—was "the worst kind of wishful thinking."

He said the plan would have "disastrous implications for the United States."

In the taped interview, Bowles said the United States has handled the problem of China "rather stupidly," and in the long run can find a solution in the "two-China" plan.

He added, however, that he did not think the present Communist Chinese regime would favour such a solution. At the same time, he made it clear that he favours no concessions to China regarding Formosa.—UPI.

A cabinet post for the Vice-President? KENNEDY TO MEET NIXON

Palm Beach, Nov. 13. President-elect John Kennedy and Vice-President Richard Nixon, whom he defeated for the Presidency, will meet tomorrow at Mr. Nixon's holiday retreat at Key Biscayne, it was announced here today.

Mr. Kennedy is at present on holiday here, relaxing in the sun for the first time after his nine-month campaign for the Presidency. Key Biscayne is 80 miles away.

Senator Kennedy's press secretary, Mr. Pierre Salinger, announced that tomorrow's meeting would have a two-fold purpose.

First, the Senator wants to congratulate the Vice-President on the campaign he conducted and second, he wants to resume the cordial relations with Vice-President Nixon which existed in their 14 years in Congress together.

A POST?

Mr. Salinger declined to answer questions about whether tomorrow's meeting heralded a government of national unity or whether Mr. Kennedy had "in mind" any post for Mr. Nixon in his administration.

The President-elect was considering his cabinet appointments and meeting Democratic leaders as well as relaxing in Florida's warm sunshine.

Governor Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut and Senator Stuart Symington, who was once a Presidential candidate himself, are due to meet Mr. Kennedy on Tuesday. Both are expected to be offered cabinet posts.

The first appointment was reported to be that of Governor Luther Hodges of North Carolina as Secretary of Commerce. Governor Hodges played a key role in the Democratic victory in the South.

But Mr. Salinger told reporters today "The Senator will make no final decision nor make any formal announcement of cabinet posts until after Thanksgiving (November 24)."—Reuter.

Vienna, Nov. 13. Rumania and the new Republic of Cyprus have agreed to assume diplomatic relations, Radio Bucharest announced today.—AP.

HOPE OF BETTER U.S.-CHINA TIES

Veteran newsmen beaten to death

Hollywood, Nov. 13. Roby H. Heard, 38, veteran Los Angeles reporter, was found bludgeoned to death yesterday in his Hollywood apartment, touching off a search for suspects in this fringe and underworld area where the victim got some of his stories.

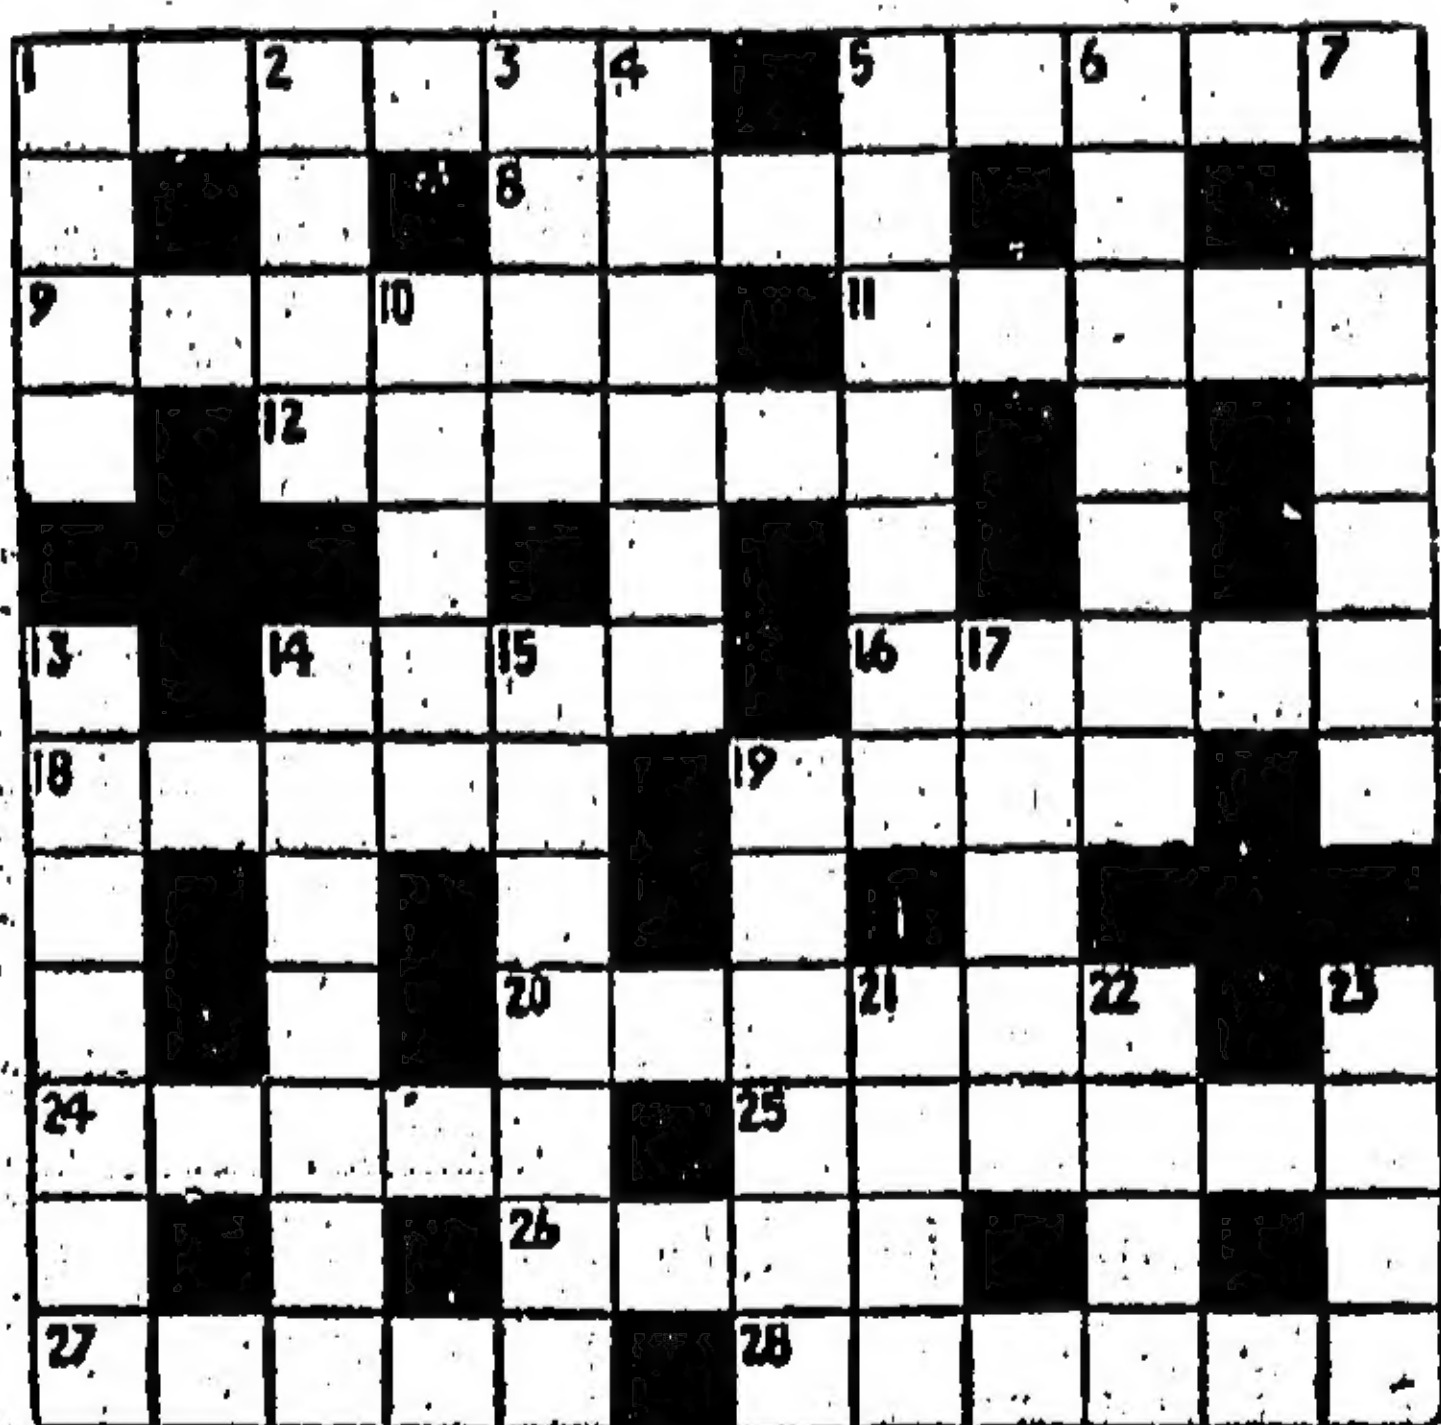

"He must have known a thousand screwballs," detective Don Furlong said. "It's a tough case and we have no idea who did it."

Detectives questioned and quickly cleared two would-be Neri sympathisers who participated in picketing of Sammy Davis Jr., at a Hollywood theatre two weeks ago. Officers said Heard had interviewed them and the two, 20 and 21, showed up at headquarters out of concern for the newsmen.

WEAPON
Other leads, including those regarding persons who were demanding money from Heard, proved fruitless, Furlong said. A hammer, was regarded as the probable weapon used in the killing, which occurred only two blocks from Hollywood Boulevard.

The veteran newsmen, whose columns about motion picture personalities were once syndicated around the world, was found by his landlady early today when he failed to report for work. Homicide investigators said Heard apparently was robbed after he was beaten on the head with a blunt instrument and a blanket thrown over his body. —UPI.

LONDON WELCOMES A FORMER EOKA TERRORIST

By RICHARD BERRY

Less than two years ago, Andis Soteriades was an enemy of Britain. A £5,000 reward was offered for his capture dead or alive. Now he is in Britain as a friend—a very distinguished friend. He has been welcomed by the Prime Minister and has had an audience with the Queen.

Soteriades, a former leader of the Eoka terrorist organisation, and now the first High Commissioner in London of Independent Cyprus, does not mind his changed position at all. "When others are fighting for your freedom how can you stand aside?" And of his new career in London he comments: "There is always so much there to enjoy, to learn and to learn from. This is not the first time Soteriades has been in London. From 1949 to 1951 he studied political science at the City of London College and law at Gray's Inn. Then Soteriades, son of a judge, went back to Cyprus to practise law.

SURROUNDED
He joined Eoka shortly after it began in April 1955, continuing his legal practice as a cover. He was detained by the British on suspicion but escaped from a prison camp to take over the Kyrenia area for Eoka. Against the "Soteriades Gang" the British used troops by the

MR ANDIS SOTERIADES

brigade, two-way radio, helicopters which dropped commandos anywhere, mortars, breacher dogs and "chained to the wall" the Army's name for paid informers. Soteriades often moved through the British lines disguised in a British Army uniform or as a Cypriot police sergeant. He was never challenged.

Not until November, 1953, did the British get a "fix" on Soteriades. His hide-out in the mountains was surrounded, but the troops could not find the entrance.

After 22 days, when food and water ran out, Soteriades and half-a-dozen of his men made a break for freedom. In the darkness they ran into a patrol.

An exchange of fire brought up another British patrol and soon the two patrols were firing at each other, while the Eoka men made off. In the flight, Soteriades' left thumb was nicked by a bullet.

When peace was declared, he thankfully returned to his law chambers. Now Soteriades is a muscular man of 34 with a chubbiness bequeathed to him by his father. He has a friendly smile and a friendly manner. He beams: "I am looking forward to this chance to make friends."

JEWISH LORD
MAYOR
DRAWS CATCALLS

London, Nov. 12.
Fireworks were thrown from the back of the onlooking crowds when Sir Bernard Waley-Cohen, 46, arrived at the law courts today to take his oath of office as London's new Lord Mayor.
They exploded harmlessly behind the Lord Mayor's state coach. Two horses following in the parade became restive.

A small group of men made cat calls. A spokesman for extreme right-wing British National Party said a number of men chanted "we don't want a Jewish Lord Mayor."
Men with placards bearing similar slogans paraded as the Lord Mayor's procession reached the law courts.

Later four people were taken to Bow-street police station.
Otherwise, crowds lining the streets to the law courts roared their cheers as the Lord Mayor drove by.

The theme of his procession was the Royal Navy—Sir Bernard, a director of several companies, once served as a naval cadet but had to abandon this career because of poor eyesight.

Behind the Lord Mayor's coach walked pikemen of the Honourable Artillery Company in the Cromwellian dress of 300 years ago. At the head of the procession rode a contingent of the household cavalry.

The procession, divided into four parts to cover all branches of the navy's activities, was soaked by downpours of rain.

The 22 mounted tableaux included a model of the nuclear submarine Dreadnought and a scaling surface-to-air missile preceded by a giant floral float.

A contingent of Wrens—women's Royal Navy Service—who are celebrating their 21st birthday this year—drew the biggest cheers.

Also marching in the procession were men from the New Zealand Frigate Otago, now on a visit to the pool of London.—China Mail Special.

Addicted
woman kills herself

Ormskirk, Nov. 13.
Four days after what was to have been her wedding day, a woman of 24 was found dead on a railway line, it was stated at an Ormskirk (Lancs) inquest.

Her father had called the wedding off after discovering that her fiancée was already married and had two children.

The coroner, Mr. C. Bolton, recorded a verdict that Kathleen Lesley Gerrard, of Sherwood Avenue, Aughton, near Ormskirk killed herself while the balance of her mind was disturbed.

Mr. William Fred Gerrard, technical manager, told the coroner he discovered his daughter had become addicted to the drug preluin.

"Her character deteriorated and culminated in a series of petty thefts to get money for drugs."

Dismissed

He said his daughter was educated at a private school, got a degree, became a state-registered nurse, and was dismissed from an Ormskirk hair-dresser's shop two days before her death.

Her association with her fiancée had a beneficial effect on her, he said, but Mr. Gerrard became suspicious and discovered that the engagement ring—which her fiancée claimed was worth £400—was only cheap.

He went with his wife to Glasgow, found that the man was married and returned the ring and letters sent to his daughter. She was upset but appeared to get over it. She was popular and happy at work.

The coroner read a note found in Miss Gerrard's handbag beside her decapitated body near the Ormskirk-Liverpool electric line, half a mile from her home. She wrote: "I am sorry I cannot see any other way that is better for us all. Please forgive me."—China Mail Special.

MRS KENNEDY

neglect
the diplomats

Washington, Nov. 13.
The Sunday Star in an "open letter" to Mrs John F. Kennedy advised the U.S. President-elect's wife to pay more attention to foreign envoys than previous occupants of the White House did.

The first lady-to-be should persuade her husband to restore diplomatic dinners enabling the ambassadors "to lay eyes on him once a year."

"The way things are now they can go from the city they present their letters of accreditation by the day several years later when they bid farewell without so much as a glimpse of the chief executive," the open letter, written by the Star's social columnist Betty Beale, said.

"This sort of thing is unheard of in other civilized countries," Miss Beale stated.

She urged Mrs Kennedy to split the diplomatic corps up into three or four smaller dinners so that each ambassador could have a talk with the President.

"This all important brief talk would prompt a five-page report home," the columnist said.

NEW EDITOR
APPOINTED

London, Nov. 13.
Mr John Freeman, 46, has been appointed to succeed Mr Kingsley Martin, 63, as editor of the New Statesman, the left-wing weekly review, it has been announced here.

The announcement said "The sale and influence of the New Statesman has long been expanding overseas, and Mr Kingsley Martin has now been appointed editorial director, with special responsibility for overseas development."

On taking up this appointment, Mr Martin will continue to write regularly for the paper but will be vacating the editorial chair which he has occupied for 30 years.

These appointments will take effect from January 1, 1961. Mr Freeman has been deputy editor of the New Statesman since 1958.—China Mail Special.

new rector

Edinburgh, Nov. 12.
Mr Jo Grimond, leader of the British Liberal Party, has been elected the new rector of Edinburgh University.

He polled 1,907 votes compared with 847 for Canadian newspaper proprietor Roy Thomson, and 644 for Mr Philip Noel-Baker, Labour Member of Parliament and winner last year of the Nobel Peace Prize.

The rectorship is an honorary post filled by student election.—China Mail Special.

REFUSES FARE
TO HATLESS
CONDUCTOR

Manchester, Nov. 13.
Turbanned Sikhs are the cause of a novel bus controversy in this northern cotton city.
The City Corporation, short of bus conductors like other city corporations, wants to employ some of the Sikhs living in Manchester. But it insists—and it has just reaffirmed its decision—that they must wear the corporation's regulation peaked cap instead of an Indian turban.

The trade union concerned had supported the corporation in its attitude, maintaining that the dress regulations should not be relaxed for anybody. But it so happens that many of the Manchester bus conductors do not wear their caps anyway.

This has made Mr Michael Moore, a 27-year-old designer, a draughtsman who lives in a Cheshire suburb, feel very indignant. If Indians are to be made to wear caps, he argues, why shouldn't the rule apply equally to Englishmen?

He has started a one-man campaign in favour of the Sikhs. He has given up driving about Manchester in his car. He travels all the time on buses so that he can refuse to pay his fare to hatless conductors.

He caused a sensation the first time he boarded a bus and, when asked for his money by a turbaned conductor, replied: "Not until you put your cap on."

The bus was stopped for five minutes. An inspector was called. He took Mr Moore's name and address—but not his five-penny fare.

Mr Moore has since declined to show that he is important to him.

Supporters of the Sikhs maintain that banning the turban, a visible symbol of the Sikh faith, amounts to religious discrimination. — China Mail Special.

FRENCH LEARN ABOUT
'BOEUF ET DEUX VEG
A L'ANGLAIS'

Paris, Nov. 13.
France may have banned the Roast Beef of Old England but steak and kidney pie, "omellette Arnold Bennett," and "Crepes Mr Smith" want on the menu at Maxim's famous restaurant here just the same.

The occasion was the start of an "English Gastronomic Week" at the plush restaurant in the Rue Royale.

Baffled French clients, who had never seen an English pie dish, responded gallantly, and daintily tackled the strange dish after tempting their palates with Colchester oysters, terrine de grouse and smoked salmon with poached shrimp.

But the roast beef was the big disappointment.

Admission

Mr Erwin Schleyen, Managing Director of the Mirabelle Restaurant, in Curzon-street, London, which is organising the week-long "Fête de boeuf d'Aberdeen a la Lucelle" was not all it purported to be. In fact it was French.

"I cannot tell a lie," Mr Schleyen told a group of invited guests. "The French Minister of Agriculture banned us from importing British beef because Britain bans beef from France."

He had received a "nice letter" from Mr Christopher Soames, British Agriculture Minister, saying he could do nothing about it but wish success to the venture.

So the two pipers from a Scots Regiment who played at dinner on two nights played reels in honour of "Aberdeen beef" from the Chateaux region of France, larded and stuffed with pale de fole gras—price according to size.

Mirabelle have sent over their French chef and several assistants to cook the English dishes, and Maxim's version of the time-honoured "meat and two veg."

Mr Schleyen estimated that by choosing economically a pleasant little "English meal" can be had for 70 to 80 new francs (about £3-12 to £4-2).

The aim of the "week" was to show that "English food is wonderful if properly cooked," but the French delicacy about food matters prevails.

When an English guest announced he would like a pint of bitter beer with his Irish stew the wine waiter gently intervened with: "A light claret goes excellently with Irish stew, sir. I am afraid we have no bitter." — China Mail Special.

Nixon won
vote

Honolulu, Nov. 13.
An unofficial but complete canvass of Hawaii's presidential vote showed on Saturday that Vice-President Richard M. Nixon won the state's three electoral votes by exactly 96 of the 184,904 ballots cast.

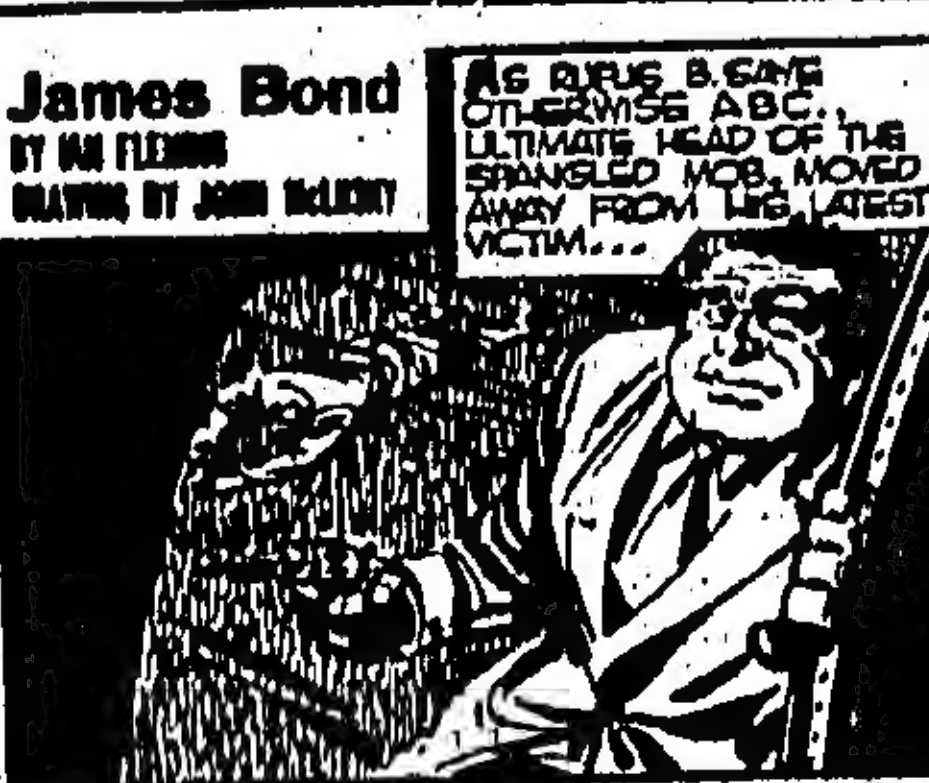

State election officials said the count represented the first complete check of the returns by official tabulation personnel in the Lieutenant Governor's office but that one more complete recheck would be made before Nixon was finally certified the winner.

The latest check showed Nixon won 92,595 votes to 92,409 for Sen. John F. Kennedy. This meant Nixon won the electoral votes by garnering 50.026 per cent of the ballots cast.—UPI.

The art of Self-Presentation

No. 1: Lynn Fontanne says:

LYNN FONTANNE is a very great lady indeed—a great lady on the stage, a great lady off the stage.

So, since I was trying to find out something of the art of self presentation by a woman, she was a natural choice.

I went along to the Royal Theatre to ask her how all this grace, elegance and charm had come about.

She arrived with her husband Alfred Lunt—who looked incredibly distinguished in an old raincoat—at 5.15.

Every detail

I went into her dressing-room and as she made up we talked. "Do you think one ought to try to make an impression on people?" I asked. "Or leave it to nature?"

"Well," she replied, "the answer is that it's a very natural thing to want to make an impression on the world. After all, even babies try to sell themselves. But the great thing is you shouldn't make it too obvious."

"We don't go out an awful lot because of our work in the theatre. But we sometimes go out to dinner on Sunday night."

"I go into every detail of my dress for days before. If I was going out to dinner next Thursday I would be sure to plan everything—my shoes, my gloves, my jewellery. Then I would arrange an appointment for a hair-do."

"How do you feel when you go into a room that is full of people? Is it easy for you? Do you put on a bit of an act?"

"Well, it changes with the years. When I was younger, it used to be one of the most frightening moments of my life when my name was announced. But now I'm more mature it doesn't worry me so much."

The change

"I think the change started to come when I realised to myself before I went into a room that there would be at least one interesting person—and hoped that he or she would be interested in me."

"I suppose the answer is not to think of yourself. That is the key to the beginning of not being shy."

"Whatever the occasion whether it's a party or dinner, the great thing is to remember that everyone is just as anxious as you to make conversation."

"Of course it can go wrong. I remember being told that the Duke of Windsor was very interested in gardening."

"I was meeting him and went on talking about gardening—but I'm sure it was not his subject."

"I was sorry to have to be making notes of my conversation, for from a glimpse or two I could see it was a very fascinating business watching Lynn Fontanne making up."

"If I was giving advice," she went on, "I would say that you want to be careful not to close a conversation. To learn to forget yourself."

"If you can keep the ball rolling any evening will be a success. And the English are past masters at it."

I went on to ask her how she thought a woman could acquire social gifts.

No right

"Well," she said, "I think it's very important if somebody asks for your opinion to defer to them. I don't think you ought to give your remarks freely when you're young—that is the time when you're most opinionated."

"Of course there are times when you're more mature people when it's a good thing if you are with people and the conversation is not all that bright to throw in a controversial subject—a social bomb."

"I remember one dinner party I was at a wonderful subject was suddenly thrown in. One of the guests said 'I don't believe in loyalty'."

"The conversation after that was absolutely brilliant, but the great thing for a woman to realise is that she has social duties."

"She's got no right to be very shy or self-conscious. It's your duty to do your part."

"Don't stand like a stick."

Look pleasant and don't look frightened."

"And the next thing a woman should learn is to keep her eyes open to the world. To be interested. If she is interested other people will soon be interested in her."

I was fascinated by Lynn Fontanne's explanation of how she feels a woman should present herself to the world.

I felt it all made very good sense—although I was not sure whether it wasn't a rationalisation of natural gifts.

Lynn Fontanne was born with a natural grace and charm.

These Germans met to praise Britain

By WILLI FRISCHAUER

THE Germans are holding so many military reunions (trying to emulate the British Dunkirk spirit and celebrating their defeats) that one has got quite accustomed to the raucous voices of the assembled remnants of the Africa Korps intoning a sob-throated "Lili Marlene" and beer-happy ex-SS men exchanging experiences of their "savage treatment" in British POW camps.

But recently in Düsseldorf there was a German military reunion with a difference. The men who held their big annual meeting were all former German prisoners of war who were confined at the Featherstone Park POW Camp in Northumberland.

Altogether 4,000 German officers and 20,000 men passed through this camp. Many of them are members of the so-called Featherstone Park Working Group.

Unlike many of their ex-army comrades, however, they did not meet to extol the glories of war-time Nazi Germany. Instead they sang the praise of—and re-avowed their admiration for—Great Britain.

This strange organisation, this unique German testimony to British decency and tolerance, owes its origin largely to the work of one man who, in my view, is characteristic of the confusing and often contradictory emotions which Germany evokes in the world today.

He is Herr — or should I say: Mr (or Captain?) — Herbert Sulzbach who served in the German army in the 1914-18 war and in the British forces between 1940 and 1945.

He is a British subject but a cultural affairs officer at the German Embassy in London, a Jew and refugee from Nazism who had devoted his life to the care of ex-Nazi officers and their conversion — well, to Western civilisation.

Remarkable

One of the main items on the agenda was devoted to Sulzbach who was elected Honorary President of the Working Group. It is a remarkable honour, considering as it does from German officers, to a Jew and a Briton whom they met in their dark hour of captivity.

Today Britain reaps the benefit of his work. Among the Germans who paid homage to him were ex-General von Choltitz

Sentimental

Men who are now members of the West German Parliament, eminent judges, big businessmen, a German military attaché in Bern, were in the Düsseldorf gathering. As they have done before, they talked of Featherstone Park, their prison, with sentimental attachment.

It was a prison without bars in which the German officers were encouraged to read and think; they were introduced to the British way of life and liked it.

Now, restored to liberty and prosperity, they think back on their time in Featherstone Park with deep appreciation. Their aim is to foster Anglo-German understanding by making their experiences as widely known as possible.

No wonder Captain Sulzbach has found important British supporters for this German Working Group. They include Lord Kirkcaldie, Lord Potholm, Sir Harold Nicolson, Captain Liddell Hart, Yehudi Menuhin and Victor Gollancz.

The theme of the speeches in Düsseldorf was "Remembering the Past to Achieve Anglo-German Friendship."

Nazi gallows stood again

Bonn.

TEN men in a row were standing on a special gallows, ropes round their necks, hands tied behind their backs, their faces distorted by horror.

You could almost feel their fear, even though it was only a scene on a television screen.

The young man next to me in the little pub in Bonn, the West German capital on the Rhine, just laughed.

He was not old enough to remember the days when Hitler came to power in Germany.

The scene was part of the first instalment of a documentary series entitled "The Third Reich."

It showed one of the many methods used by Hitler to clean up his political enemies, after he came to power.

Jackboots

The jackboots, the marching songs, the flags, Hindenburg, the Reichstag fire—they were all there.

A cool, very cool, line of narrative explained it all. The Germans round me watched it fascinated.

They forgot their beer. There were laughs when Hitler's throaty rasping voice crackled over the loudspeaker.

"What a clown!" came a mutter. Most of the watchers in this pub—about 30 men and four women—were young. Only six or seven were of the age group to have lived through the real thing.

"Well, let's face it," said an elderly man after it was over. "He did end unemployment. He gave us something to eat. If only the war had not started."

"He was Fats," said one of the youngsters. "I don't think he could have been avoided." Snapped his young neighbour: "Our parents voted for him. Today, they know everything."

WORLD AIRLINE CHIEFS MEET

CHIEFS of the world's major airlines are to get together next spring to thrash out the problems of flying their passengers at supersonic speeds—upwards of 1,450 m.p.h.

The meeting takes place in Montreal in April. It will be attended by about 700 airline executives.

It will be the first complete study by the airlines as a whole of the problem that is now beginning to cause a big headache.

What are the worries?

FIRST the cost. Supersonic airliners are going to cost several millions each. There is the additional worry that they might become available before the present and the now-being-built second generation jets have finished their profitable lives.

Money and prestige

None of the world's airlines, nationalised or private, is making big profits. And executives believe that the way to make money is to run cheap fare services and pack in a lot of the millions who have not yet started flying.

But there is no industry which keeping up with the Joneses is more important, and it one airline started flying supersonically there would be a mad scramble from the rest.

Sir Matthew Slattery, BAA's chairman, has said that he would try to get his rivals to agree to a 10-year truce on supersonics.

I am sure that all airline chiefs would LIKE to agree, but even Sir Matthew doubts that they will, and if there is to be a race is determined to try to win it.

Noise and supersonic bangs (which can be destructive to property on the ground if made low enough) are other problems.

CAR-racing champion Jack Brabham, who has been learning to fly at Farnborough, Surrey, has now qualified and earned his private pilot's licence.

A Battle of Britain pilot, Group Captain Neil Cameron, has just taken over command of the RAF Transport Command airfield at Abingdon, Berks.

For the past two years he has been personal staff officer to two Chiefs of the Air Staff—Sir Dermot Boyle and Sir Thomas Pike. Before that he commanded the University of London Air Squadron at Biggin Hill.

Spy centre, U.S.

ESPIONAGE FINDS THE PERFECT SETTING—THE UNITED NATIONS

Washington.

THE chrome and glass palace of the United Nations in New York, where G-men have just broken up another cloak and dagger Russian spy ring, has taken over from the boudoirs of Belgrade and Madrid as the secret agent centre of the world.

That is one reason why no one believes Khrushchev is serious in demanding to have the UN headquarters moved to Geneva or elsewhere... he would be losing the best listening-post he ever had.

Many guises

In the oblong-shaped talking shop Hungarian can meet Arab, American, Jew can meet Russian and German can meet Russian and nothing is thought of it.

The spies hide under many guises. Some are United Nations employees, and officials, some are diplomats appointed to United Nations committees, and others are members of their countries' delegations.

by Christopher Dobson

Who is going to suspect two members of different delegations conferring together on a matter of "procedure" over a drink in the delegates' lounge? Who is going to question a member of the secretariat taking notes of documents in the course of his daily work?

Two secret agents named recently bring up the total of Russians caught spying in America to 12. They have all been members of the Soviet delegation, or Russian employees of the organisation. ALEXANDER KOVALEV, for example, was a Second Secretary of the Soviet delegation and attempted to obtain what the Americans will only describe as "material of intelligence significance."

An F.B.I. report explains that Kovalov ordered his source to "park his car in a designated area in New York City at a designated time and to place a package wrapped in red paper therein so that it could be seen through the rear window in the event material was to be passed."

An additional signal, by way of marking a telephone directory in a New York restaurant, was perfected. Poor Kovalov. He did not know his source was a double agent. And Kovalov is not in the U.S. any longer.

BORIS GLADKOV, a naval adviser to the United Nations Committee of the United Nations, met an American engineer at a cocktail party, cultivated him, and paid him 1,500 dollars for marine engineering information. Gladkov, too, was caught and sent home.

VLADIMIR GRUSHA was seen to receive a copy of the Ceylonese delegation's code book from a Ceylonese employed by the United Nations Secretariat. The code book was actually "borrowed" from a filing cabinet on the fourth floor of the United Nations building.

Both Grusha and the Ceylonese were thrown out of America.

Tapping...

And so it goes on all the time, the deadly game of espionage. The Americans have a full-scale counter espionage unit attached to UNO.

They keep the Russians under constant surveillance, telephones are tapped, waste-baskets searched, men followed, double agents planted, all the paraphernalia of espionage is used.

Put simply, it is a cardinal rule in the Russian way of playing the cold war that any person from Russia allowed through the Iron Curtain to work in the West doubles as a secret agent.

Edgar Hoover, the F.B.I. chief, has hammered away at this point, and it has become so transparently true over the years that the Russians do not even bother to deny it any longer.

RAPPIERS' RACING COMMENTS

Class 1 ponies to race in today's main event

A VERY FIT PRINCE VALIANT IS DUE FOR A BELATED WIN

The Hongkong Jockey Club's two-day Third Race Meeting ends today at the Valley with a programme of nine events. The First Saddling Bell will be rung at 11.30 am and the Tiffin interval will be after the Fourth Race (1.30 pm). The Bennet's Hill Handicap for Class 1 ponies from the 1½ Mile Post is the main attraction of the day.

Here are my estimates of the chances:

FIRST RACE
Bridge Hill Handicap (First Section): Six Furlongs.
Novice jockeys will be on view in this opening event, and they will be called upon to handle Class 5 ponies.
Among the entries, Harmony II (Steven Lu) has the best recommendation for the first position on account of its win in the Chatham Handicap (First Section) over the mile at the First Race Meeting for Class 6 ponies. I think it should account for this race.

It may, however, meet with stern opposition from Jemima P. (A. J. de Silva) which is good over this distance.
Gambetta (H. Fattydud) and Deseri Hero (C. S. Chan) are also good and they can be depended to make a fight of it.

SECOND RACE
Violet Hill Handicap: From 2 Mile Post.
This race is confined to Class 7 ponies. Sydney (P. Plumby) appears to have the best recommendation for a win here.
The pony to watch, however, is Alex Lam. It has been showing improved form lately and it will give Sydney a keen fight.

There is also Dratonsky (Lam King-tak) to be considered as this pony has been making rapid improvement, and the distance should suit it.
Vigorous Ava (Wellington Loh) is considered good enough to extend the other starters and may cause an upset here.

THIRD RACE
Black Hill Handicap: From 1½ Mile Post.
One of the outstanding ponies in this race is Wise Leader (Alex Lam), while both Ding Dong (Wellington Loh) and Gigha (P. Plumby) have been beautifully tuned for this race.

The outsider is Hit Parade (H. K. Hung).

FOURTH RACE
Notting Hill Handicap: Six Furlongs.
In this race for Class 7 ponies, a fighting fit Thelokol (145 lbs) to be ridden by Chun Kit deserves the best recommendation for a win. The boy gelding has shown much improvement in form and is expected to succeed. Fenelchur (Robert Tsai) has a strong claim and should provide Thelokol with some opposition.

Hyiamon (Lai Chun-fai) is rounding into fine form and should give a better showing today.

Courier, with P. Plumby up, could be the one to upset.

FIFTH RACE
Bridge Hill Handicap (Second Section): Six Furlongs.
This sprint race is confined to Class 5 ponies.
Of the entries I prefer the combination of P. Plumby and Rotary Wheel best.
With a decent getaway at the start, Nobel Prize will be most difficult to beat.

SIXTH RACE
Diamond Hill Handicap: One Mile.
Class 8 ponies will battle it out here.
Judging from recent form during morning gallops, I fancy Mighty Courage (H. K. Hung) to win but it is likely to receive strong opposition from Twin Luck (Yen Ching-in) and Lucky Chap (Alex Lam) both of which are capable of giving Mighty Courage a good fight.

SEVENTH RACE
Bennet's Hill Handicap: From 1½ Mile Post.
This is the main event of the afternoon and will be contested by Class 1 ponies. Prince Valiant (P. Plumby) is due for a belated win and has been training well. It has never been better than it is right now.
As You Wish (Andrew Lam), Lucky Number (Robert Tsai) and Winsome Stag are in fine form also and should figure prominently at the finish.

EIGHTH RACE
Sandy Bay Handicap (Second Section): From 1½ Mile Post.
In this race for the second lot of Class 3 ponies, I see no reason why Don Juan (H. M. Botelho) should not score. It has plenty of speed and there will be opportunity to use it. Iqbal (H. K. Hung), will, of course, be a tough nut to crack. If it gets off to a good start.

NINTH RACE
Obelisk Hill Handicap: From 2 Mile Post.
Class 5 ponies will contest this final event of the Third Race Meeting.
In view of its fine win in the Compton Handicap (Second Section) over one mile, in the 1st Race Meeting, Bellinda (Allan Chan) will be the pony in most demand by bettors this afternoon.

Pathfinder (Chun Kit) should give the above named pony a good fight to the end, and a win for Bellinda is not impossible.
Your Wish (Yen Ching-in) should fill the third place.
Cover Girl (H. K. Hung) is the best outsider.

Minor injuries worrying U.S. Davis Cuppers

Sydney, Nov. 12.

Minor injuries are worrying America's two leading Davis Cup players, Barry Mackay and Earl "Butch" Buchholz.

Mackay has callouses and blisters on his feet, and Buchholz has a blister on his racket hand.

The injuries could hamper their chances of winning through to the final of the New South Wales Men's Single Championship at White City.

Buchholz opened up the blister on his right hand this week. He says the skin is gradually hardening again.

But the constant irritation of racket grips rubbing on the tender skin is obviously annoying the hard-hitting 20-year-old.

Buchholz served a lot of double-faults yesterday, while beating young Queenslander Greg Hughes in the second round.

A tricky wind was partly responsible, but the American gave the impression that he was sure as confident of his fitness as he would like to be.

Twenty-five-year-old Mackay has tried to "play down" his foot trouble, but he admits he has been treating the blisters regularly since he arrived in Sydney a week ago.

"I had a fairly long lay-off from tennis before I left home," he said. "The callouses have been there for some time, but the blisters have developed since I started running around the grass courts here—China Mail Special.

Happy Valley . . . 4, Eastern . . . 4 GIFT GOALS GALORE

Eastern make spirited recovery after being three goals down

By I. M. MacTAVISH

This bristling first division soccer match between Happy Valley and Eastern yesterday could have been torn from the pages of fiction.

It had all the fantasy beloved of writers of sporting thrillers for boys. There was the failure who came back to be a hero . . . the apparently beaten side that recovered in spectacular style to save the day . . . the hairbreadth escapes like the ones that bring thrilling mental day-dreams to youthful readers . . . and of course there was a fine sporting round of handshakes when the battle was over.

The 25,000 fans who went to the Hongkong Stadium yesterday had a fair share of all of these things and they stayed right to the final whistle to see gallant Eastern gain a point in a 4-all draw with Happy Valley after being down by four goals to one with only 21 minutes played.

It was a grand fightback but, make no mistake, Happy Valley should have won with plenty to spare . . . and the fact that they did not do so was due to their own inexplicable failures rather than to anything particularly brilliant in the Eastern side.

Delightful

Happy Valley were streets ahead of their opponents in the finer points of the game. Some of their early inter-passing was delightful to watch and at one stage one got the impression they were going to win by the proverbial barrowload of goals. Maybe the truth is that goals came far too easily. We had the Formosan international goalkeeper at one end and the man who is regarded as the Colony's top keeper at the other, yet six of the eight goals were directly attributable to their errors.

Wong Shiu-woo has seldom been less certain and current Formosan custodian Louy Woon-chun went through a nightmare period in the first half.

His mistakes were catastrophic and he was very lucky indeed that his colleagues managed to cover up twice when it seemed certain that goals would result from his bungling . . . but, unlike Wong Shiu-woo, whose uncertainty continued right to the end, he came back black in the second half to save his side with a magnificent display of safe handling and acrobatics that almost wiped out the memory of his earlier tragedies.

Goals and misses

The story of this game, however, is really told in the story of the goals . . . and the unusually large crop of near misses.

With just seven minutes gone Happy Valley attacked through the middle. As the ball landed at Kwok Moon-wah's feet he spotted goalkeeper Louy rather inadvisably racing from his goal and the centre-forward lofted the ball goalwards.

The keeper jumped high and managed to get his finger tips to it but the ball dropped behind him and was two feet over the line before Louy could relieve it. He did manage to sweep it away but the linesman's raised flag indicated that the goalkeeper's frantic dive had been unsuccessful.

Kwok Moon-wah almost had another one a couple of minutes later but Eastern's superbly survived and actually equalised in the 17th minute and again it was a goal due to a goal-keeping error.

Szeo Man carried the ball down the Eastern right wing, slipped and the full-back and slipped a neat pass into the goalmouth. Wong Shiu-woo was caught in two minds and before he could recover Soongman side-footed the ball into the net.

Oh, that defence

Eastern's defence lasted exactly 45 seconds for as soon as the ball got to the other end another blunder produced another goal.

Little Tse, Bien-kuen, moved unnoticed into the open space outside . . . to collect a loose ball and make the most of a bit of misjudging by goalkeeper Louy to pop the ball home and give Happy Valley a 2-1 lead.

A minute later Happy Valley went further ahead and, as we have discussed it, and another defensive error led up to the goal. This time the culprit in error was left-back Szeo Yui. The old Colony star was caught in a difficult position and decided to kick the ball back to his defence. It was not a good idea. An angle of 45 degrees from the ball kicked into the Eastern goalkeeper's outstretched hands and into the far corner of the net. A real opportunist goal . . . but, oh that defence! It needed only two more minutes for Happy Valley to increase their lead still further and this time goalkeeper Louy Woon-chun must have wished the ground would open up and swallow him in his moment of tragedy.

Winger Au Ping-ling moved diagonally towards the Eastern goal and with two defenders closing in on him he sent a rather half-hearted drive right into the keeper's arms. Louy had all the time in the world to grab it and clear his lines . . . but a strange hush spread over the ground as the tall goalkeeper let the ball slip through his fingers and over the line. He hung his head in shame and I'm sure he will remember the occasion as long as he plays football, and afterwards.

Eased off

With a 4-1 lead Happy Valley were now embarking through the game and Eastern looked even worse than they did a week ago. Louy Woon-chun did some things to reduce confidence in his ability when he catapulted through the air in spectacular style to turn a magnificent drive by Wong Man-wai over the bar.

For some inexplicable reason Happy Valley suddenly eased off the pressure and Eastern started to come into the picture without ever looking likely to recover lost ground . . . then like a gift from heaven another error by goalkeeper Wong Shiu-woo made them a present of a goal and they were back in the hunt.

The ball was swept into the Happy Valley goalmouth and it looked the easiest of tasks for their big goalkeeper to clutch and clear . . . but he made no move to intercept the ball in flight and Lou Shiu-wah had the simplest of simple tasks to head it into the net.

At the halfway stage Happy Valley still held their 4-2 lead and the main thought during the interval was that all six goals might have been prevented . . . and that's quite a thought!

It took Eastern just two minutes of the second half to pull back another goal of their own and this time for good measure it was caused by that one but two defensive errors. Szeo Man took the ball almost to the by-line before pushing it into the six yards box.

Thoughtless foul

Lee Chin-kee missed it completely as it passed him, goalkeeper Wong Shiu-woo rooted to his goal line and Soongman had the easiest job in the world to tap the ball into the net.

There were black looks galore in the not-so-happy Valley defence.

Eastern now realised for the first time that they could still have the game in spite of all the first half blunders and, with the opposition buckling at the knees, they piled on the pressure.

Lau Chi-lam roared on to a bid clearance by Lau Tim only to see his flashing drive from 20 yards tipped over the top by Wong Shiu-woo . . . and a little later Danny Chi-kong head struck a back when a magnificent grander played the point on the OUTSIDE of the post after it had beaten the goalkeeper all ends.

But with such pressure a goal when it did arrive it was the direct result of a thoughtless and totally unnecessary foul by Wong Man-wai.

The right-half upended an opponent who outside the 22 on the penalty area when it seemed ready to clear the ball legitimately. Lau Chi-lam took the kick and the goalkeeper's defence of the meter was shot low through a crowd of players, struck the inside of the post, and finished up in the back of the net.

With the score at 4-all the crowd stood by for thrills. They were not disappointed. Lau Tim made a spectacular clearance off the goal line at one end and, to show the way things were fluctuating, it took a similar effort by Lau Yee to save the day for Eastern when Happy Valley made a last minute attempt to regain their lead.

Heroes

In the closing fifteen minutes Happy Valley were back on top and it was during this period that Louy Woon-chun performed his reputation-restoring heroics.

For Happy Valley, Lok Tak-fung, Wong Man-wai, Lau Tim, Au Ping-ling and Tse Bien-kuen were the men who mattered most while Eastern, who won many friends by their wholehearted effort, got excellent service from Chan Chi-kong, Szeo Man, Lau Chi-lam, Soongman and, in the second half, Lau Yee.

Toreros' ladies team put up week's best softball performance

By OLLY VAS

Pride of place in this week's report goes to the Toreros' team of lady softballers for their fine victory over a plucky but very inexperienced Nam Wah side.

Anne Tiu tossed a steady game for the winners in this first no-hit no-run game in the Ladies' Division, the final score being 13-0. She struck out 12 batters and faced only 19 in the five-inning match.

2-0 up in first

The Toreros were up 2-0 in the very first inning. Maggie Kwan had a base on balls off pitcher Choy Fook-seng, stole second, advanced on Olivia Ogley's infield out and scored on a wild throw in the five-inning match.

Peggy stole second base, advanced to third as Anne Tiu was being tossed out at first and then crossed the home plate for the Toreros' second run as Teresa Kwan hit the ball safely past the Nam Wah infield.

For Nam Wah the first batter out, Leung Wing-wah, struck out. Then Anne Tiu tossed four balls and Chan Pui-fung to walk her but it came to naught as the next two batters also struck out.

Not to be outdone pitcher Choy struck out two Toreros batters in the second inning and retired the Toreros in order in the third which saw both sides failing to tally and the scoreboard still reading Toreros 2 Nam Wah 0.

Four walks

In the fourth inning Nam Wah pitcher Choy issued four walks and these expensive free tickets to first base coupled with three fielding errors on only a pair of hits allowed the Toreros to tally six times to lead 8-0.

In the Nam Wah fourth inning Choy struck out a walk then stole second and then went to third on catcher Margaret Tsui's fortunate to escape severe censure for two crude and painful fouls on Soongman.

YESTERDAY'S HOCKEY

PAT GARDNER LEADS COMBINED CIVILIANS TO 4-2 WIN OVER NAVY

By NUMPERE

The Royal Navy showed greatly improved form in their match against the Combined Civilians at King's Park yesterday. They were beaten 4-2 largely through the efforts of Pat Gardner who scored a hat-trick and laid on a perfect pass for Yakub Khan to score the fourth goal.

The Combined Civilians team showed four changes from that selected. J. Collopy, Y. Khan, M. Singh and Felton substituting for Valera, D. Castro, Alenco and Zia Hussain.

The Navy side showed three changes from that fielded against the Army last Tuesday and there were seven Royal Marines included. They had their fair share of this game with left-back Haines, centre-half Stevens and centre-forward Cook outstanding.

Cook had several fine runs through the middle and with a little luck might have scored at least one more goal.

Gardner's match

For the Combined Civilians Collopy who usually plays on the left wing for his club, played well at right-half, whilst Dillon and Pedruco were safe at full-back, but this was Gardner's match.

The Navy went into the attack right from the start whilst the Combined Civilians were settling down and nearly went into the lead in the second minute.

Their centre-forward Cook ran through and Kadir had to use his hand to save a hard rising shot. The ball went behind and from the corner Cook had two shots at goal stopped by Kadir's pads.

The Navy certainly had the better of the opening moves and it was not until the 10th minute that the Combined Civilians came close to the Navy goal when a Guterres centre went right across and behind.

At the other end, Stewart ran through and Dillon missed the ball but Kadir was out to save well.

In the next few minutes the Navy had four corners but could not press home the advantage. By now the Combined Civilians had settled down and in the 21st minute Collopy intercepted a clearance, took the ball across field and slipped it to Guterres who ran on and flicked it past Corless to open the scoring.

They continued attacking with Gardner and Guterres combining well on the left wing.

Four minutes later M. Singh crossed to Gardner who drew Corless out of his goal, calmly walked past him and pushed the ball into an empty net.

In the 30th minute Gardner completed his hat-trick when from a Guterres corner he slipped the ball and, although the Navy were lying there and goal, picked his spot and shot hard from an oblique angle.

The Navy did not deserve to be three goals behind at this stage but that was how it was until the interval.

From the start of the second half Gardner went through again but this time Corless came out and cleared.

Navy's goals

In the 40th minute Ellis cleared the Navy's lines with a hard hit upfield which Cook pounced on and took upfield. Kadir advanced from his goal but Cook slipped past him and opened the score for the Navy.

They went straight back into the attack. Cook again taking the ball upfield. His shot was saved by Kadir but left-winger, Wagon, came running in fast to intercept and further reduce the pressure with a hard shot.

Play was now going from end to end and Corless saved well from Singh after Gardner had made the opening. The Combined Civilians defence were playing well—upfield, catching the Navy forwards offside. In the 50th minute the Combined Civilians went further ahead. Gardner picked up the ball midway in the Navy's half, took it as far as the goal-line with two defenders in attendance and then passed back to Yakub Khan who rattled the net with a terrific shot.

Unlucky

The Combined Civilians were now on top but the Navy refused to give up. They were unlucky not to score in the 61st minute. From a roll-in Hunter found Cook and from his shot Kadir conceded a corner. From this Stevens shot was blocked, Cook intercepted and his shot hit the post and the Combined Civilians managed to scramble the ball away in the ensuing melee.

In the dying minutes the Navy threw everything into the attack and again went close. Stevens sent Cook away and the centre-forward tried to lift the ball past the advancing Kadir but Kadir managed to get his hand to the ball for a good save.

It was an entertaining match, played in the best of spirits. Last minute substitutes certainly weakened the Combined Civilians team but they just about deserved their success.

It is a pity the Royal Navy's visit is so short. If, for one, would have liked to see more of them on the sports field.

The teams

Combined Civilians: Kadir (Prisoners), Pedruco (Recruits), Dillon (Navy Bharat), Collopy (Navy Bharat), Collopy (Navy Bharat), Y. Khan (Navy Bharat), A. A. ## PICTORIAL PARADE

The international signpost at the entrance to Birmingham Airport on the main Birmingham-Coventry road makes a fitting background for a road machine also designed to go places the new 350cc Norton Navigator touring motor-cycle. The sleek new machine developed from the popular 250cc Jubilee four-stroke twin, is offered in two forms partially enclosed (as shown here) and 'open' with orthodox mudguards instead of the rear enclosure.

With a heavy wooden cross on his shoulders, Edouard Khayat of Beirut has started a one-man march from Geneva which is to lead him to the capitals of the world. He intends to demonstrate in this fashion that there can be no peace among the peoples and the nations of the world unless there is peace in every home. Picture shows Edouard Khayat with his wooden cross, inscribed 'Humanity', starting his long march.

A 'Lansen' jet fighter crashed into a farm house at Kolva, Central Sweden, recently after ploughing through a wooded area. Seven inhabitants of the farm were killed and almost all of it was destroyed. The plane's pilot escaped a few seconds before the crash by parachute. Picture shows the remnants of the jet fighter. Firemen are at work in the background to fight the fire in the farm's debris.

Gary Davis, self-styled world citizen Number 1, has been summoned to appear in a Manhattan court for driving a Vespa scooter without a proper New York State licence plate. Instead, he had a 'World Government' plate which he claims he is entitled to issue himself as head of the world government.

The Vespa scooter has been impounded and Gary Davis is now riding a bicycle with his World Government-plate affixed to it.

VERANDAH DWELLERS ORDERED TO GET OUT AFTER CRASH

A Route 6C double-decker bus crashed into a stone pillar under a verandah, displacing it by two inches early this morning.

Residents of the verandah at 124 Un Chau-street were ordered by the police to evacuate their homes pending repair of the pillar. The bus on its way from Lai-chik to Kowloon was trying to avoid a collision with a goods van when the accident occurred in Un Chau-street near Kinkiang-street at 1 a.m. The bus was travelling along Un Chau-street when suddenly the goods van turned from Kinkiang-street into its path. The bus swerved to avoid the goods van. The bus bonnet was extensively damaged and its windscreen was shattered. The damage to the goods van, however, was slight.

Plea to fight Communism

Havana, Nov. 13.—The Archbishop of Santiago, one of the nation's most respected prelates, has exhorted Cuba's Roman Catholics to fight Communism without fear or hesitation in a strongly worded pastoral letter.

The Most Rev. Enrique Perez Serrano warned, in the four-page letter to be read in churches today, that Communism "has infiltrated copiously every corner of the globe."

He added that the battle between Rome and Moscow was not only a religious one, but also a political one. He urged the faithful to stand firm against the "godless" Communists, who he said were "the enemies of Christ."

A TALE OF TWO CHINAS

Those who have come across the story of an enterprising gentleman who used to enjoy free drinks in the two adjacent countries of yore, known as Manchuria and Kurilania, might find the following tale interesting.

Once upon a time, there were two Chinas in the Eastern Hemisphere—the South China and the North China. It was alleged that a South China dollar was only worth fifty cents in the currency of North China, and similarly a North China dollar was equivalent to a half-dollar in the territory of South China.

There was then a glib-tongued tourist from a friendly nation who happened to be stranded in South China. As he was at the end of his resources, he bought himself a meal for fifty cents with his last South China dollar on hand, and accepted a North China dollar at half value as change.

He kept the change where-withal he could buy his next meal in North China for fifty cents and export thereafter a South China dollar in return.

He continued to do this till he was rich. The law, China realised, since then he had never been heard of.

'Italian Fortnight' begins in Colony tomorrow

Hongkong-Italian trade should be a two-way traffic and there is still plenty of room for expansion of Hongkong exports on the Italian market.

The Italian Consul-General, Mr. Piero Guadagnini, made the point at a press conference on Friday night prior to the opening of "Italian Fortnight" in Hongkong tomorrow.

He also called upon the Department of Commerce and Industry to make sure that Hongkong is represented at the forthcoming 39th Milan International Trade Fair from April 12 to 27 next year.

Redundancies

"Thereby you can not only promote your sales in Italy but enhance your trade with 15 countries usually represented at the Fair," he said.

He admitted there were "redundancies" in goods flowing both ways. "Nevertheless, they are entering for different classes of customers."

The "Italian Fortnight" will open tomorrow at 11 a.m. and a ceremony at the Shui Hing department store in Kowloon, Nathan-road, to be followed by an Italian fashion show and cocktail party at the Paramount restaurant at 5.30 p.m.

On November 22 there will be a "tasting of Italian wines" at the same restaurant from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Gala dinner

And a gala dinner will be held on board the Asla on November 26 at 8 p.m. There will also be a small display of Italian food products and a demonstration of Italian cooking at the Ideal Home Exhibition to be held at the Star Ferry.

Accused of killing Premier

Amman, Nov. 13.—The Military Prosecutor today indicted 16 persons, some of them Syrian-United Arab Republic officials, on charges of planting the mine bomb that killed Jordan's Premier last summer.

Eight of the accused were under arrest and will appear in court to face the death penalty if convicted. The other eight have fled the country and will be tried in absentia.

Jordan charges that they have taken refuge in the Syrian section of the UAR. Trial date was not set.—UPI.

Concert by blind musicians

By D. E. GRAY

The concert presented by the Hongkong Music Training Centre for the Blind was its Third Anniversary Concert, and its contribution to the Sixth Hongkong Festival of the Arts.

Opening with three small items, including a Haydn Minuet and Trio, played by an orchestra made up of blind and sighted players, the first half of the programme consisted of individual solos and choruses.

The orchestral effort was quite astonishing, in that it is remarkable that players, handicapped as they are, are able to play in ensemble at all, and it was a sturdy effort, conducted by Arrigo Foa.

Albert Le' on the flute, with a very pure tone, was pleasant to hear, and the piano solo 'Waltz' by Debussy, played by Au Ching-ming, very commendable indeed.

David Lung, baritone, gave very tasteful renderings of two songs by Schubert and Schumann, and the Chorus of Chinese Folk Songs closing the first half were both well sung and well received by a capacity audience.

The main feature of the evening was a Cantata—in 10 parts, written for the occasion by Albert Le'. It was a very real pleasure to experience this first performance of an original composition, one that demonstrated beyond doubt the musical ability of young Mr. Le'.

The work contained some very simple but moving themes. One particularly liked was 'Darkness Falls upon the Hill'. We look forward to hearing more of this young musician's work from his pen.

Fuller praise must go to the piano accompanists of the evening—Samuel Hui, Lily Tsang and Alice Low, all of whom were in complete accord with their respective soloists.

Although these young people deserve all possible encouragement in their pursuit of music, we wonder if a concert of this kind should have been included in the Festival of the Arts, whose organisers surely never envisaged a demonstration of this kind truly representing the state of the Arts in Hongkong.

A partnership of 113 runs for the fourth wicket between E.C. Finch, the Kowloon Cricket Club player, and Lieut. C.C. Garthwaite, of the Royal Artillery, saved Hongkong from a complete debacle in the Interport Cricket match against Shanghai on the Hongkong CC ground on Saturday. As a result of the stubborn stand by these two players the Colony side was able to run up a total of 213 runs in reply to which Shanghai made 66 runs for the loss of Stokes and Humphreys, the opening batsmen.

Fincher topscored for Hongkong with 72 while Garthwaite scored 60 and Hayward, 28. For Shanghai, P. Madar took seven wickets for 70, while Leach took two for 43.

The Hongkong Government, last of the Far Eastern silver administrations to act, has declared an embargo on the export of silver.

It has also issued new dollars (paper) and nickel sub-collars to relieve the local currency shortage arising from the silver hoarding.

These were the only currency developments at the weekend.

The action having been taken at noon on Saturday, with the banks closed there has been no opportunity as yet to reserve the reactions.

Shanghai comments that Hongkong's ban on silver export will gratify the Chinese Government in curtailing silver smuggling.

Children as hostages

Managua, Nov. 13.—Armed rebel troops held 200 children as hostages in the Christian Brothers School at Diriamba, Nicaragua, today and demanded a safe-conduct out of the country as the price for their release.

Government troops surrounded the institute, on Diriamba's outskirts, and President Luis A. Somoza asked Managua's Archbishop-coadjutor, the Rev. Carlos Borge, to negotiate the children's release.

The Government yesterday suspended constitutional guarantees and imposed martial law after fierce fighting between national guardsmen and the rebels, described officially as "Fidel Castro mercenaries," in neighbouring Carazo Province.—UPI.
